Re: Your assistance with our copier/printer situation.

Dear Ed,

While browsing a recent issue of the local Riverside County Bar journal I happened to run across your ad for document processing services. Anxious to resolve a problem of over capacity and other concerns with an existing lease, I contacted your company to discuss what recourse the firm might have in restructuring our document imaging services. I am writing to express my appreciation for your work in resolving our existing problems, and getting us into a new program that meets our needs on terms that are fair and upfront.

In our meetings to discuss our past lease, your willingness to share your knowledge and experience in the business was invaluable in helping us to understand how we got into such an inappropriate lease situation in the first place, including explaining to us the less than exemplary conduct of our former vendor. Your willingness to frankly share that knowledge has provided us a way out of an otherwise intractable and costly situation. It is refreshing in this day and age to run across a vendor who puts integrity and ethics on par with business profits.

Please accept this letter of thanks for all of your hard work in helping our firm to extricate itself from an equipment lease that was not only crunching our cashflow, but threatening our credit standing. In the process, you have set us up with a much more economical and efficient machine configuration that far better meets our present needs.

We look forward to a long and productive relationship with your company; a relationship based on trust and integrity. You have already shown us, in stark contrast to our former vendor, that your actions match your words.

Sincerely,

Brian C. Unitt, Managing Partner
